ABOUT THE EDITORS

G. HARON DAVIS (they/them) is a New York–born, Tennessee–raised young adult author. Currently residing in the outskirts of Kansas City, Missouri, they specialize in horror and several shades of fantasy. They cofounded marginsbox, a diversity-celebrating book subscription box, with Adrienne White in 2019. They can be found online at ghdis.me, on Twitter, @burnonblackhome, and on Instagram, @sopescum.

CAM MONTGOMERY (nonbinary she/her) spends her time teaching dance to queer kids, bingeing anime, tending bar, and writing romancey novels. Two of her YA novels—Home and Away and By Any Means Necessary—are available now. Having ditched LA, the transplant now lives in Seattle and has made a habit of complaining about the weather even though she secretly loves it.

ADRIANNE WHITE (she/her) is a born-and-raised Midwesterner living in the suburbs of Kansas City, Missouri. When she's not writing or editing young adult content, she's usually napping, watching movies, listening to K-pop, and uplifting marginalized voices in children's literature. In 2019, she cofounded marginsbox, a diversity-boosting book subscription box, with g. haron davis. Creating the stories she needed growing up is her joy.

Byron's writing is a fictionalized reinterpretation of his lived experiences growing up and being from the Red Lake Indian Reservation, and as of now has been written as young adult. His writing portrays an honest balance between the trials and tribulations that his people face, the hope that so many hold in their hearts, and is laced with plenty of "Indian Humor" as well as life lessons.

Byron currently resides in the Denver, Colorado, area. When not glued to a book or his laptop, he can be found skateboarding or at a retro video game arcade.

EMERY LEE is an author and artist whose love for chaotic and morally gray characters started at a young age. After graduating with a degree in creative writing, e's gone on to author novels, short stories, and webcomics across a variety of genres and demographics, though YA fiction has always held a special place in eir heart. Drawing inspiration from Eastern media, pop punk music, and personal life experience, eir work seeks to explore the intersections of life and identity in fun, heartfelt, and inventive ways. In eir downtime, you'll most likely find em marathoning anime or snuggling cute dogs.

Alex is a cofounder of the Latinx Kidlit Book Festival and a member of Las Musas. She lives with her family in the semi-wilds of Pennsylvania.

MARK OSHIRO is the award-winning author of the young adult books Anger is a Gift (2019 Schneider Family Book Award) and Each of Us a Desert, both with Tor Teen, as well as their middle grade debut, The Insiders, out in 2021 with HarperCollins. When not writing, they are trying to pet every dog in the world.

Mark is based in Atlanta, Georgia.

They are represented by DongWon Song of the Howard Morhaim Literary Agency.

KIANA (KIKI) NGUYEN is a novelist, screenwriter, and literary agent whose love for storytelling leads her to creating her own worlds centering queer girls and women who experience complex emotional lives from wanting things they fear they'll ruin. She is currently based in Los Angeles while missing Brooklyn, New York.

KARUNA RIAZI is a born and raised New Yorker, with a loving, large extended family and the rather trying experience of being the eldest sibling in her particular clan. She holds a BA in English literature from Hofstra University, and is an online diversity advocate, blogger, and educator. She is a 2017 honoree on the NBC Asian America Presents: A to Z list, featuring up-and-coming talent within the Asian-American and Pacific Islander community, and her work has been featured in Entertainment Weekly, Amy Poehler's Smart Girls, Book Riot and Teen Vogue, among others.
