ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Somehow writing acknowledgments is harder than writing the whole rest of the book! So many people played a part in making The Gingerbread Witch a real book, and I want to make sure I thank them all properly.

First I have to thank my wonderful editor, Connolly Botum, who loved this book from the beginning and believed in it before I did. Your amazing work, notes, and ideas for this book have truly been invaluable. Thank you as well to everyone else at Inkyard Press: Bess Braswell, Brittany Mitchell, and Laura Gianino. Huge thank you to Jerri Gallagher, copyeditor extraordinaire. Thank you to Petur Antonsson for the absolutely stunning cover illustration (you brought the characters to life so perfectly!) and to Neil Swaab for the wonderful art direction.

Thank you to my lovely agent, Patrice Caldwell, and all the brilliant people at New Leaf Literary: especially Meredith, Suzie, and Jo, I really appreciate your help with everything! And thank you to all the other amazing publishing people who had a hand in this book: Natascha Morris, Naomi Davies, James McGowan, and the team at Book-Ends.

Thank you to all my writing friends and every person who is part of this writing community. You are truly all magical. Special thank you, as ever, to Katie Passerotti for your unwavering help and support with all my writing—but especially for my incessant questions on line edits. Edria and Nuss will definitely be best friends forever. To Tara Gilbert, the most supportive and kind friend I could ask for, I don't know what I'd do without you. Huge thanks to Tiffany Elmer who continues to be the best dragon mom, to my partner in crime/long-time nemesis, Briston Brooks, and to my debut buddy and publishing friend for life, Zabé Ellor.

Thanks as well to Tamara Mahmood Hayes for all the sprints, to Kalyn Josephson for taking this middle grade debut journey with me, and Kianna Shore for all the food-related puns. Eternal gratitude (not enough synonyms for my thanks!) to more lovely writing friends: Delara Adams, Sarah Williams, Rosey Waters, Kindra Pring, Katie Hahn, V Walker, Tiffany Meuret, and Colleen Mulhall. And to all my hatchlings: I love you and I'm so glad I got to put a dragon hatchling in this book!

Thank you to all the fantastic librarians, booksellers, bloggers, bookstagrammers, and other bookish people who have championed both this book and my debut. Especially in the current times, having that support has meant the world to me, and I honestly can't thank you all enough!

A huge thank-you to all my friends who have to deal with me constantly saying "I can't, I have a deadline": Allie, Marisa, Elo, Peyton, Anayib, Francesca, and Gabrielle. You're all amazing and I couldn't do this without you. Thank you as always to Christa Fassi for being the best coach and support. Thank you as well to Geo and Isabel for the in-depth discussions on tiny line edits! I appreciate you ignoring your dinner for them. Special thank-you to Lila Victor, the number one self-appointed publicist and bookmark put-together-er (can you tell I'm running out of descriptors now?).

Thank you, as always, to my wonderful family, without whom none of this would have been possible. To my mum for her endless and amazing support. To my sister Clemmie for always being a poophead (yes, I managed to get that in this book too). To my dad for fostering my love of writing. To my aunt Jann for all her help and guidance. Thank you especially to Becky, who was the first person I let read my writing, and Emma, who always gave me books I adored (and Jonny for putting up with me). And, of course, to my grandparents, who this book is dedicated to. And for the rest of my extensive, far-too-big-to-list-here family: thank you all for your love and support.

The final thank-you in this one goes to Tiny, the sweetest cat. You didn't get to see this published, but I'll never forget how you helped me write "The End."
