Acknowledgments

I NEVER IMAGINED I'D WRITE a book. Leading Pfizer's effort to bring forward our COVID-19 vaccine created many unexpected opportunities—and responsibilities. One of those was to record our journey for future leaders and to document the triumph achieved by the nearly ninety thousand colleagues whose stories of perseverance, creativity, and sacrifice are told in these pages. It is for their legacy that I've authored Moonshot.

First and foremost, I offer my heartfelt congratulations to the Project Lightspeed members. In this bold endeavor to make the impossible possible, you managed to both aim high and hit.

To our COVID-19 vaccine partners at BioNTech, in particular Ugur Şahin and Özlem Türeci. I thank you, and consider it an honor to have traveled this road together.

To the Pfizer executive leadership team, who contributed to the vaccine while also delivering every day around the world on our purpose: Breakthroughs that change patients' lives. I can imagine no better team and am grateful for your partnership.

To the Pfizer board of directors, who provided wisdom and support throughout the pandemic and consistently over time. Thank you for being so resolutely behind our vision.

To the Pfizer team who contributed their time to this book: Eric Aaronson, Frank Briamonte, Andrea Christensen, Dana Gandsman, Ed Harnaga, Doug Lankler, Debra Mangone, Anneka Norgren, Sally Susman, and Tiffany Trunko. Special thanks to Sally, my partner and prodder throughout this project.

To the dedicated team of professionals who move mountains every day in support of the office of the CEO, including in the support of the development of this book: Michele Bander, Dana Dotti, Steve Fascianella, Lily Hakim, Sonia Heidel, Yolanda Lyle, and Dorothy O'Mara.

My sincere thanks to all those who were interviewed to help account for posterity: Yasmeen Agosti, Tanya Alcorn, Payal Becher Sahni, Kim Bencker, Mois Bourla, Selise Bourla, Donna Boyce, Frank D'Amelio, Lindsay Dietschi, Mikael Dolsten, Phil Dormitzer, Lidia Fonseca, Bill Gruber, Ed Harnaga, Susan Hockfield, Angela Hwang, Kathrin Jansen, Luis Jodar, John Ludwig, Rod MacKenzie, Mike McDermott, Kevin Nepveux, Dara Richardson-Heron, Caroline Roan, Martina Ryall, Susan Schuman, Jon Selib, and John Young.

To my external advisors, who gave generously of their expertise: Greg Shaw at Clyde Hill Publishing, Hollis Heimbouch and the team at HarperCollins, Mollie Glick and the team at CAA, and Alan Fleischmann and his colleagues at Laurel Strategies.

To all my readers, please know that this work represents my memory of events during an incredibly pressured period. I've endeavored to make this work as accurate as possible. Any mistake in that regard is my own.
